RATIONEL WINDOWS AND DOORS – the natural choice

The majority of the timber Rationel uses is Baltic Pine (Lat: Pinus Silvestris L.) and in respect to sustainability it is certified to FSC or PEFC.

Commitment to sustainability and the environment

Rationel uses pinewood exclusively from the slow-growing, sustainable forests of northern Scandinavia where trees are left to develop naturally without the use of fertiliser. This ensures a compact structure in the timber that provides unbeatable stability and resistance to moisture.

Rationel uses only timber of the highest quality, with a minimum of 60 per cent heartwood where necessary. The timber is seasoned slowly under careful control and handled throughout the manufacturing process with respect for the wood as an organic material with a life of its own. Careful storage and drying ensure a natural, healthy and attractive end product that can be admired and enjoyed for many years to come.
