

Greenwich Retail Park

Sited on Bugsby's Way, the main approach road to the Greenwich Peninsula, Greenwich Shopping Park has received much praise for its bold and exciting design. Architects were able to comply with insurance requirements without compromising on aesthetics thanks to the versatility afforded by Eurobond's Europanel system.

Greenwich Council regards the scheme as exemplary and showcase the park as the leading design in quality architect for the retail industry.

The park has provided over 10,200sqm of open A1 floor space and is the largest open A1 fashion park in inner London. The project has become a highly successful first major UK retail development for outsiders Deutsche Property Asset Management.

Over 4,000sqm of Eurobond's Europanel system, with 86mm thick insulation cores, were fixed to a vast steel structure housing a dozen outlets including Next, WH Smith and Boots.

A spokesman for Mountford Piggott Partnership recounts "We are aware of problems clients can face with rising insurance premiums on commercial buildings, and specified Eurobond panels system to ensure an adequate level of fire performance was installed through the project with this A1 rated composite panel."
