James Latham is proud to be the UK's largest stockist and distributor of the Horizon range of North American sawn lumber products.

Horizon is a family-run company in the heart of the Pennsylvania forest with a refreshing and unique philosophy in converting timber from log to lumber. Unlike the vast majority of mills in the US, Horizon assess each log before cutting in order to meet a specific customer demand.

Horizon supply all products to James Latham in metric, allowing our customers a little bit extra on thickness. Considering the care taken in kilning and the flatness of the boards, this often means a saving in production, for example, there is no problem achieving a 22mm finish from a 27mm Horizon product.

Extensive choice

As well as its standard range of high-quality sawn square-edged lumber and LOG-INTACT™ material, Horizon is also able to offer bespoke cutting to customer's requirements, for example, quarter sawn 50mm Walnut.

Because Horizon is assessing each log before processing, it also boasts an impressive inventory of unique, prized sections of wood which will appeal to the most discerning furniture maker. These are available to view online and can be priced individually and added to a regular shipment.

If you are frequently processing North American hardwoods and get frustrated with the lack of consistency in the material, please contact one of our knowledgeable and highly experienced timber specialists at your local James Latham depot to discuss our Horizon range and what it might be able to offer you.

It's likely the additional yield and quality you will get in your production will be well worth it.

Quality, assured

The Horizon process initially starts with making sure that the right quality logs are sourced from the optimum geographical location. Species of timber vary greatly throughout the Appalachian Mountains, so Horizon's attitude to sourcing and cutting offers unrivalled colour, fibre, texture and specification consistency.

Horizon process one log at a time in its entirety ensuring that the boards from the same log are kept together in the same pack of timber arriving with the customer. The material is then further processed with the same meticulous attention to detail, through grading, kilning and packaging to deliver a product that is unrivalled in quality and consistency in the North American market.

One of the modern-day challenges for UK craftsman is to source raw material that is of a consistent quality and appearance. Horizon meets this challenge, even to the extent of offering a LOG-INTACT™ product, where the boards in the pack are sequential, offering the opportunity to effectively book-match solid wood.
