

Technical Data

Handrails and balustrades

Composition and manufacture

The slotted-tube system is developed with a focus on design and function; a straightforward, clean design that fits readily into almost any architectural interior. The slotted-tube system includes a complete range of fittings, including vertical and horizontal corners, end caps and rubber inserts.

Sitework

As a complete modular system, Aalco solutions are simple to specify, order and assemble. A full range of literature is available online and in hard copy, with CAD files also readily available from the manufacturer.

This is backed by full support from the UK distributor and direct from the manufacturer.

When it comes to ordering, everything is available from stock.

Installation is equally straightforward, as the systems are assembled without welding, although some items can be welded if preferred.

Consult Aalco for further details.

For further information on this company, go to:
www.barbourproductsearch.info